

Kia ora koutou, and welcome to this fortnight's issue of ForuM. We hope you have registered for some of the great learning and social events we have lined up for you over the next few weeks. If you're hanging out for a really good dose of FM networking, mark 12-13 August in your diaries. If you're in Auckland over these two days you can visit us at our stand at Facilities Integrate, come along to the FMANZ Awards Celebration on 12 August and gather with colleagues again the following morning for the Auckland Regional Breakfast Seminar at Facilities Integrate on 13 August. For more details, head to our learning and events page.

Kia pai tā rā whakatā,
The FMANZ team

Congratulations to our Awards Finalists

In case you missed the news last week, the finalists for the 2020 FMANZ Awards have been announced. "Despite the challenges of lockdown, we were thrilled to receive a healthy number of nominations across the various categories for this year's awards," says the Chair of the awards committee, John Hutchings.

"We were humbled by the great work demonstrated by our many FM's and service partners in this year's nominations and are excited that we can once again share and celebrate these achievements within our industry." (Find out more about the Awards Celebration here. We have kept the cost low to encourage as many people as possible to come along to support the finalists and celebrate success in FM.)

Drumroll, please ... The finalists in the 2020 FMANZ Awards are ...

Facilities Manager of the Year: David Curry, Auckland University of Technology, Gwynn Gilmour, MHP, Leon Hewertson, Precinct Properties, Simi Mukherjee, PMG Funds and Mark Squire, Tāmaki Health.

Young Achiever of the Year: Tash Adams, Cheops Holdings/McKee Fehl Constructors, Peter Fisher-Skipper, Spark New Zealand and Geoffrey Lambert, Westpac.

Service Provider of the Year: Aquaheat, Jackson Engineering Advisers, PAE, Test & Tag and United Cleaning Services.

Congratulations and good luck to you all!

Has Covid Changed the Way We Work?

Join us for the second online seminar in our new FM Summit Speaker Series - Where We Work: Adapting the Physical Environment of Work in a Post-Pandemic World. On Tuesday 28 July at 8.00 am, Associate Professor Rachel Morrison will present aspects of her research into the physical environment of work, drawing on both academic literature and her own associations with two large NZ organisations as they pivot towards a more flexible use of space. With worker well-being as a central theme, she will explore both challenges and opportunities in how and where people will work and collaborate, and how necessary changes might be managed effectively in organisations. Find out more and register here.

Scheduled for the last Tuesday of the month - June to November - the FM Summit Speaker Series examines the seismic shifts taking place in the world and explores the important contribution facilities managers can make as custodians of the built environment. You can jump online at the convenient time of 8.00 am to view these seminars live and take part in the Q&A, or watch them at a later date if that works better. Find out more about the series - and what other sessions we have planned - here.

In the Line of Fire - Stuart Bryant at Facilities Integrate

We look forward to seeing you at Facilities Integrate on 12-13 August at the ASB Showgrounds in Auckland. This year Facilities Integrate is joining forces with BuildNZ and The National Safety Show to create one mega event. Packed full of new features, the show has more than 150 exhibitors - including FMANZ - showcasing thousands of products and services, all under one roof. And if that's not enough reason to visit - we're holding the Auckland Regional Breakfast Seminar there on Thursday 13 August at 8.30am. Come along to hear Stuart Bryant, Head of Facilities at SkyCity, discuss the impact of the NZICC fire from an FM perspective. Find out more and register here.

Note: Wherever you are in NZ, watch for great topics and speakers coming your way. A welcome opportunity to upskill and catch up with local friends and colleagues, we are scheduling Regional Breakfast Seminars - two per region - between August and November. Info on the first Wellington seminar below. More details coming soon for other seminars and regions.

Wednesday 22 July, 12.00 - 1.00 pm, online - NZIOB & Site Safe Webinar: Mental Health and Wellbeing in challenging times. This online webinar explores the topic of suicide and mental health during challenging times, including ways to cope with organisational changes, as well as taking care of yourself after losing your job. Free for Site Safe & NZIOB Members, $15 plus GST for Non-Members.

Wednesday 29 July, 5.00 pm, Palmerston North - New Manawatu branch meeting.

Wednesday 5 August, 9.00 am, online - HVAC 101 - an interactive three-hour online workshop covering the basics of heating, ventilation and air conditioning.

Thursday 6 August, 5.00 pm, Christchurch - Riverside Market Tour.

Thursday 27 August, 5.00 pm, Wellington - Quiz Night, kindly sponsored by Resene.

Thursday 10 September, 7.00 am, Wellington Regional Breakfast Seminar - Join Shelley Major from Major Consulting Group to learn about your responsibilities as a PCBU when it comes to asbestos, and how to sensibly manage risks to health and safety. More details coming soon.

New Building for Climate Change Programme

In case you missed it - the Government recently announced its Building for Climate Change programme to transform the building and construction sector to reduce emissions and improve climate resilience. "The Building for Climate Change programme has been set-up to get us building in a completely different way," says MBIE. "Tackling the climate change challenge will require vision, commitment and perseverance as well as significant change. It won't be done overnight and it won't be easy." FMANZ has registered interest in engaging with Minister Jenny Selesa and MBIE on the consultation and implementation of this programme. Read more about the programme here.

CPD Points - Variety is Key

Our professional development manager, Wayne Abel, has been delighted with the number of professional reading and learning requests coming in for sign-off and CPD point allocation. Keep them coming! Just a reminder though: To encourage participation in different types of CPD activity, no more than five points will be allocated per activity, excluding FM Summit and accredited FM tertiary papers. In other words, you can't earn your 20 CPD points by doing 20 hours of professional reading, so aim for a mix of professional reading, webinars, in-person workshops, tertiary papers etc. Click here to find out more about the CPD programme and how you can earn points, or email Wayne at pd@fmanz.org if you have any questions.

Situation Vacant: Programme Manager at Hamilton City Council

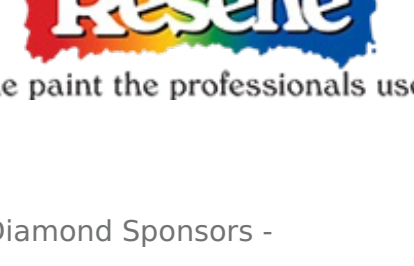

Hamilton City Council is looking for a Programme Manager to spearhead the renewals and improvements of Council's buildings. From public toilets to large buildings, you will take care of replacement and improvements. Leading a team of Project Managers, you'll work collaboratively with internal delivery teams and external stakeholders to ensure the best outcomes are met. Driving and delivering a positive Health and Safety culture will be an essential part of the programme delivery. Thriving on a challenge, you'll tackle and deliver varied and complex work across the different assets. As an ideal candidate, you will be an experienced, hardworking and motivated leader, capable of managing a programme of diverse projects; from major to minor, you'll oversee it all. You will be an expert in project and programme management methodologies and have a solid understanding of procurement processes, contract and risk management. In addition, you'll have an open and positive mindset, and be an excellent communicator, interacting eloquently with a variety of stakeholders including contractors, colleagues, elected members, and senior leadership. HCC is looking to appoint a salary of approximately $120,000 per annum, however this could be negotiated for the right candidate. Applications close Sunday 2 August 2020. Go to our Job Centre page for more information.
